Dear Mr Prowse, Richard

Thank you for your letter dated 21 February 2017 regarding iSurvive's potential to assist in the development of the Road Safety Education Complex.

I understand that you have now met with the TAC and are aware that the Road Safety Education Complex (the Complex) is a key element of the Young Driver Safety Package and will be developed by the TAC to reflect evidence based and best practice approaches to effective road safety education.

The aim of the Complex is to engage young people, their families and the broader Victorian community in experiential education to support good practice road safety, effective solutions and the goals of Towards Zero in an innovative way. The Complex will also provide a key opportunity to embed and extend the Towards Zero approach within the Victorian community and will become a global hub for road safety.

The Complex is due to be opened in mid-2018. As such, the planning, content development and exhibition design processes have only recently commenced. A wide range of consultations have been planned to inform the content development and technical requirements, including briefings with industry stakeholders, with schools, teachers and most importantly with young people.

Thank you for your interest in young driver safety.

Yours sincerely
